We taught Crown's African Money Map.

About Crown's African Money Map

The Crown African Money Map was a collaborative effort of a group of people who live in Africa and are passionate about seeing the millions of self-sustained farmers and entrepreneurs in their continent become financially free! It is based on the North American "Money Map."

It outlines the timeless principles of God's Word concerning money presented through the story of Henry's life. While Henry is a fictional character, the events of his life are realistic and extremely relatable for the people being served through this resource. It is inspiring; the reality of the obstacles and challenges he faces make this a fun and easy to follow story.

We sent a team to Rwanda to study how best to work with pastors whose churches were closed. More details can be found in the report below.

Introduction

The government reforms introduced stringent requirements, including mandatory theological degrees for pastors, adequate parking facilities, noise regulation compliance, and other infrastructure standards that many smaller churches could not meet. While larger, established churches have remained operational, the closure of thousands of smaller congregations has created significant social, spiritual, and community challenges that continue to affect faith communities, particularly youth and children, and poorer urban and rural dwellers.

Recommendations for Action

The findings from this scoping visit reveal that while the government's intentions to professionalize Faith Institutions and protect citizens from exploitation are legitimate, the implementation of these reforms has created grave unintended consequences that require immediate and sustained intervention.

The displacement of youth and children. The increase in substance abuse, the lack of accessible counseling services, and the general deterioration of community cohesion represent serious threats to social stability and individual wellbeing that demand urgent attention. The proposal to establish provisional gathering spaces for youth and children through tents and makeshift arrangements at authorized churches offers an immediate solution to the crisis of community displacement.

This approach acknowledges the urgent need for young people to maintain social connections and spiritual support while working within the constraints of current regulations.

The emphasis on facilitating theological training for affected pastors through international partnerships and online education programs represents a forwardthinking approach that could help religious leaders meet regulatory requirements while continuing to serve their communities.

Moving forward, Empowering Nations (EN) 's call to be God's instrument in such a turbulent time is clear and cut out. EN is requested to consider:

- Supporting faith groups build resilience and offer a vision of hope within despair
- Equip saints with more skills
- Sustain collaboration between multiple actors. Help pastors be influencers with government agencies, faith leaders, international partners, including theological institutions and leadership academies, and community groups.

A Report from Afromothers Foundation

EN donated funds to enable Afromothers to get a piece of land for its operations. EN is involved with this organization because of its work with mothers and young girls. This is a way of ensuring that families are being empowered at different levels including small business loans, training, counseling and health services.

Afromothers Counsellors Talking To Girls And Boys At Seeta Secondary school

In July 2025, Afromothers Uganda advanced its mission of promoting life skills in teenagers and mental wellness. At Seeta Secondary School, the team engaged 300 teenage boys and girls in an interactive Straight Talk session, holding separate discussions to create safe spaces for open dialogue.

Small Business Loans Update

Update on Sarah's Shop

“Sarah was chased away with her 4 children by her Moslem husband for giving her life to Christ. She is building this business to enable her to feed her family.” Recently she received a loan from EN to add in the business.

In Closing,

As we look ahead, we remain deeply grateful for every prayer, gift, and word of encouragement you have shared with us. Together, we are making a difference—one life, one family, one community at a time. May we continue to stand united in purpose, filled with hope, and committed to seeing lives transformed.

Thank you for walking this journey with us. The best is yet to come!

With gratitude,
Judith R. Nakibuuka
